Join us on Wednesday, August 23rd, for a presentation by Adrian Anderson on "The Inside Track to an Ethical Will."

Adrian will both entertain and enlighten us as she leads us through a quick exercise to create an ethical will. Have fun learning how to preserve your values and perspectives while creating a personal family treasure.

She has extensive experience assisting individuals and families in the writing and development of ethical wills and creating family legacy documents. As a pioneer of the American Hospice movement and long time member of hospital ethics committees, Adrian saw the need for an easy step-by-step program to facilitate the creation of ethical wills at all ages and stages of life. Working with attorney Leigh Hilton, they have developed a workshop that will familiarize you with the legal, medical, and ethical life planning documents that you might find useful. Their expertise and experience combine to make an efficient and pleasant experience for you to enjoy the step-by-step process of developing an ethical will and other family legacy documents of your choosing.

Adrian says, "It is a real pleasure for us to see how much joy both the individual and the recipient get from the creation of an ethical will or family legacy document."

An ethical will can be shared at the time it is written or delivered to the recipient at the appropriate time you designate. An ethical will or family legacy document will provide insight for those you love and for generations to come into your values, your accomplishments, your dreams, your wishes, a tribute to those you love, or any other messages you wish to convey to the future.
